

Australian Tree Fern

The Australian Tree Fern is a beautiful, tropical-looking fern that brings a soft rainforest feel to any landscape, patio, or shaded garden space. It is known for its tall, textured trunk and large, graceful green fronds that arch outward to create a lush canopy. This fern grows best in partial to full shade and prefers rich, moist, well-drained soil with consistent watering, especially during warm or dry weather. In the right climate, Australian Tree Ferns can reach 15–30 feet tall, with fronds spreading 8–15 feet wide, making them a wonderful choice for adding height, texture, and a bold tropical accent. It is best suited for USDA Zones 9–11 and should be protected from frost, freezing temperatures, and strong drying winds. With its elegant shape and impressive size, the Australian Tree Fern makes a beautiful focal point for shaded landscapes and gives gardens a peaceful, exotic feel.
